DETAILED ACTION

1. Claim 1 recites the limitation "the finishing device" in line 5. There is insufficient antecedent basis for this limitation in the claim.

2. Claims 2 and 3 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim.

3. Claims 4-13 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Caspar (6,022,452) in view of Lindblad (4,474,643) or Kotitschke et al (5,557,860)

Caspar shows apparatus for cutting and threading a tail of paper in a papermaking machine. The finishing machine section of the papermaking machine that is specifically described in Caspar is the calender section. Lindblad or Kotitschke et al show that is well known and advantageous to provide water sprayers across the width of the dryer to moisten and control the moisture profile of paper. Thus it would have been obvious to provide a dryer section in the paper machine in Caspar with the water nozzles or sprayers. It is noted that the claimed operation of wetting the paper during the threading operation is a method concept that does not further impart positive structure to patentably distinguish over the apparatus of the prior art.

4. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.

Wolf et al (6,444,090) is cited to show sprayers for adding water to paper to control moisture profile prior to finishing.

Hebels (DE 3741680) is cited to show spaying water to control the moisture profile of paper prior to calendering.
